

Computing Science Division (VC)

As the program support element of the Office of the Chief Information Officer, the function of the Computing Science Division (VC) is to provide solutions for scientific and engineering problems through mathematical analysis and software, data acquisition engineering support for experimental test facilities, high performance computational capabilities, and real-time software applications for flight and ground systems.

